Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) program educates individuals about disaster preparedness for hazards that may impact their area and trains them in basic disaster response skills, such as fire safety, light search and rescue, team organization, and disaster medical operations.

Using training learned in the classroom and during exercises, CERT volunteers can assist others in their community following a disaster when professional responders are not immediately available to help. CERT volunteers are encouraged to support emergency response agencies by taking an active role in emergency preparedness projects.

The CERT concept was developed and implemented by the Los Angeles City Fire Department in 1985 by recognizing that citizens would very likely be on thier own during the early statges of a catastrophic disaster. Building on the developement of the training model used by the LAFD, in 1994 the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) expanded the CERT materials to make them applicable to all hazards and made the program available to communities nationwide.
